DESCRIPTION:

Basilisco is an historic winery comprising a network of Tuffo cellars cut into the sides of high ridges on the wild but picturesque slopes below Mount Vulture in Italy's Basilicata. Now owned by Feudi di San important new producers in Southern Italy and is making worldGregorio, Basilisco has come under the umbrella of one of the most class wines at prices that do not nearly match the quality on.

TASTING NOTES:

"Basilisco delivers a deeply volcanic expression of Aglianico, with aromas of dried fruit, crushed granite, lead pencil and exotic spice. Thanks to 18 months of oak aging, it also shows supple softness and a velvety texture that gives this usually austere wine an easy approach overall." M.L. 2/1/2013
